DAVIS THEATRE.

Three Fine Vaudeville Acts and Feature Photoplays, Including The Million Dollar Mystery.

For the first half of this week a special bill has been arranged, and one that will be sure to meet with the approval of the Norwich theatregoers. In the vaudeville Prevett and Merrell top the bill in a wonderful illusion and magic specialty that will both mystify and entertain; seemingly impossible feats are accomplished by this clever team. See them for yourself today and you will wonder at the tricks they do. Jaquette and Foley come next, and for real classy singing and dancing this pair have it on all the other acts of this kind. Dave Marion comes next, real chasey singing and dancing this pair have it on all the other acts of this kind. Dave Marion comes next, and he has a political monologue that would put T. R. Roosevelt to shame. The way this fellow handles the political situation is really funny. In the photoplays, the headline attraction is the seventh chapter of The Million Dollar Mystery, which shows that the battles wage more flercely. Sharper becomes the fight of wits. The Black Hundred now resort to the auto bandits. Having discovered that Florence rides horseback every morning, accompanied only by her riding master, they form a new attack. Florence and the riding master ride along the river road. A fige alarm causes the riding master to flee back to his stables. Florence rides on alone. The trap has worked and after some exciting action Florence is found in the tolls of the bandits, a prisoner in a lonely hut. Norton appearing on the scene of the fire, sees the riding master return alone, fears treachery, jumps into an auto and speeds out over the river road. He traces the signs of struggling to the lonely hut—smashes in the door, fights a terrific battle with the guarding bandit and wins. Their escape and the pursuit by the remaining bandits thrills with action and ends in the most remarkable auto disaster ever filmed. Ten thousand dollars in cash will be given for the best 100 word solution of this great mystery. See the pictures here. Read the story in the paper. Follow the developments each week. Then send in your solution. The Mutual Weekly, No. 85, with a lot of interresting news, and Such a Cook, a funny Keystone comedy, complete the bill. A special added two-reel feature will be shown extra every afternoon. Matinee at 2.30; evening at 7 and 8.45. Don't miss this big holiday show.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Fourth Episode of The Trey o' Hearts Will Be Shown Today and Tomor-

The Auditorium will open this afternoon with a specially picked holiday bill which promises to be a corker. There will be three rousing good vau-ville numbers and a picture bill that is hard to beat, opening with the sec-ord of the Universal Boy series, which is a very interesting and highly enter-taining reel, which will be followed immediately by the fourth episode of The Trey o' Hearts, the best serial picture ever made. This fourth chapter is entitled Dead Reckoning, and takes up the story where Alan Law and his companion are washed ashore from the burning Sea Venture and find they are on an uninhabited island. Judith and her five male accomplices start for the island to capture Alan, but not until after Rose True, awakened from her drugged sleep in the Portland hotel, follows the party in a boat and comes across them just as Judith and Comes across them just as Judith land hotel, follows the party in a boat and comes across them just as Judith is starting for the island. Rose is taken captive by Judith and locked up in Judith's boat, while Judith goes ashore to find Alan. In the scuffle on shore Alan secures Judith's dory and sails out to the larger vessel to find Rose imprisoned there. This number is most exciting. A Sterling comedy reel will complete the picture bill.

Joe Goodman, a very clever mono-Joe Goodman, a very clever mono-loguist, will start the vaudeville ball rolling, and will be followed by Tes Dagnoux, a man and a very beautiful woman who are positively wonderful jugglers. The vaudeville programme will be completed by Lussier and Ol-

COLONIAL THEATRE Adventures of Kathlyn, Featuring Thrilling Volcanic Eruption.

The powerful event that present The powerful event that presents Kathlyn to the patrons of the Colonial today is entitled The King's Will and is in two roels, telling of her wonderful escape from the crafty Umballah, and how she in her flight for safety is piloted to the volcanic island. No sooner is she there than a terrific eruption takes place, and Kathlyn and her party are saved only by an overhanging cliff that protects them from falling stones and molten lava. It is easily one of the sensational events in the big series of this, the greatest wild animal pictures ever made. Other films comprising today's show are A Romance of the Pueblos, a magnificent scenic Biograph story; Broncho Billy Wins Out, featuring G. M. Anderson, and The Wages of Sinn, a convulsing Kalem comedy.

Kalem comedy.

Wednesday the second episode of the Alice Joyce series will be shown. READY FOR STATE FAIR.

Some Thrilling Stunts to Be Staged Charter Oak Park.

The finishing touches are now being put on the big Connecticut fair at Charter Oak park, which promises to be quite as important an event from a sporting standpoint as it is from an agricultural industrial and educational. Apart from an opportunity of hearing the Hon. Champ Clark and other notables of city, state and nation speak on Labor day, visitors have the biggest programme of sport for the holiday that the fair association has ever given. At 11 a. m. the big athletic meet will start. With such notables as Abel Kiviat, the world's champion miler: Norman S. Taber, the former Brown university star, now a Rhodes scholar at Oxford university. England, and Howard Drew, greatest of them all in the dashes, entered for the events, there is great likelihood of some record smashing performances. Christopher Scaife of the Y. M. C. A has charge of this feature. The afternoon of the holiday will bring the opening of the grand circuit race meeting with the best performers of the big line competing for the famous purses, headed by the $10,000 Charter Oak classic.

purses, headed by the $19,000 Charter Oak classie.

The structure for Two Feathers and her high diving horse, which will be a free feature every day, has been completed, and unless one has witnessed the feat it can hardly be believed that an Indian maiden seated on horseback dives into an artificial lake from the top of the structure. She does it however, and seems to take great delight in it, at that. This will be a free feature every day, as will Mme. Marie's burlesque circus, which includes a big company of actors, horses, ponies, donkeys, monkeys dogs and cats, all doing their utmost to chase duli care away. Every night there will be a great spectacular reproduction of Commodore Perry's victory at the battle of Lake Eric, a production involving an enormous company of actors, carleads of scenery and a wonderful display of fireworks.

Cattle will be shown at the fair every day from 12 to 2 o'clock, with blankets off. This time is selected as it is the warmest part of the day, so that the animals will not catch cold. On Tuesday, Ayrshires and Holsteins will be judged. The big cattle parade will take place Thursday afternoon, headed by a band and mounted horsemen. About 300 blooded stock will be in line.

ORPHEUM THEATRE, DANIELSON

ORPHEUM THEATRE, DANIELSON Way Down East.

The ever popular drama, Way Down

East, will be the attraction at the Orpheum theatre, Danielson, Thursday, Sept. 10.

Way Down East is a play of the homely, wholesome kind which appeals to the heart. It is a play with a story that touches the heart, but which is told in a charming manner. Briefly the tale may be sketched: A girl who has been deceived by a villain, through a mock marriage, goes to a New England village to begin life anew, that has been all but shattered. She becomes sort of a companion and assistant in the household of a farmer whose son is engaged to a cousin. The young man falls in love with the newcomer, son is engaged to a cousin. The young man falls in love with the newcomer, he and his betrothed not ever caring over much for each other. Just as the lovemaking of the son and the companion is reaching a climax, the village busybody learns something of the girl's story and tells the farmer. He investigates enough to learn that there is some truth in the story, and then orders the girl from the house. It is night, and there is shown one of the most realistic bits of stagecraft ever given. A blizzard is blowing and the storm is seen as she opens the door. As she leaves she denounces her bestayer who, by a strange coincidence, is visiting the farmer. The son defles his parent and follows the girl. He finds her in a snowdrift and takes her to a deserted sugar shed for shelter. Of course, the farmer relents and goes to look for his son and the girl, and everything ends happily.

POETRY

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN. "The hand that rocks the cradle"— but there is no such hand,
It is bad to rock the baby, they would have us understand;
So the cradle's but a relic of the former foolish days,
When mothers reared their children in unscientific ways;
When they jounced them and they bounced them, those poor dwarfs of long ago—

bounced them, those of long ago —
The Washingtons and Jeffersons and Adamses, you know. They warn us that the baby will pos-sess a nuddied brain If we handle ! A him, we must carefully refrain; carefully refrain;
He must lie in one position, never swayed and never swung.
Or his chance to grow to greatness will be blasted while he's young.
Ah, to think how they were ruined by their mothers, long ago—
The Franklins, and the Putnams, and the Hamiltons, you know.

Then we must feed the baby by the schedule that is made,
And the food that he is given must be measured out or weighed.
He may bellow to inform us that he isn't estisfied.
But he couldn't grow to greatness if his wants were all supplied.
Think how foolish aursing stunted those poor weakings long ago—The Shakespeares and the Luthers and the Bonapartes, you know.

We are given a great mission, we are we are given a great mission, we are here today on earth
To bring forth a race of giants and to guard them from their birth.
To insist upon their freedom from the rocking that was bad
For our parents and their parents, scrambling all the brains they had.
Ah! If they'd been fed by schedule, would they have been stunted so?—

That's the smallest kingdom on earth, isn't It?"
"Not so loud please. Somebody may think we're big enough to hold an ultimatum."—Cleveland Piain Dealer. "Here you are," scolded the robin, "putting your egg in my nest and expecting my wife and me to hatch it. You have a mighty bad reputation for your irregular habits."

"Oh, I don't know," saucily replied the cuckoo. "I never heard of any clocks being named after you."—Chicago Post.

"What's your time?" asked the old farmer of the brisk salesman.
"Twenty minutes after 5. What can I do for you?"
"I want them pants," said the old 'armer, leading the way to the window and pointing to a ticket marked "Given away at 5.20."—Kansas City Star."
